Pet Food and Product Brochure

Introduction

With pet ownership on the rise, it's no surprise owners want nothing but the best for their furry friends. Idaho's prime location in the Pacific Northwest U.S.A. helps in producing superior ingredients and cutting-edge technology to manufacture only the finest products for pets around the globe. Passion and innovation from these Idaho companies will not only lead to healthier pets but to a love and trust of pet owners in these products.

Geography and high elevation, climate, and nutrient-rich soils are a few of the reasons why Idaho has a reputation for producing high quality hay and forage products. In 2021 alone Idaho produced over 13 million dollars in forage products, making it top in the nation for both alfalfa and timothy yielding high quality nutrition for livestock and pets.

Not only does Idaho produce high quality hay and forage but is one of the top producers of Sugar Beets. Sugar Beets rank fourth as Idaho's most valuable crop, showing successful yields year after year. With Idaho's prime location along the Snake River Valley about 1750,000 acres are planted and harvested leading to more than six million tons of sugar beets each year. Beet pulp can be found in select dog food delivering a good source of fiber, optimal nutrition, and maintains intestinal health.

Another great nutrient source located within dog and cat food includes barley. Idaho's altitude, high desert climate and agronomic conditions including abundant irrigation water, make it ideal location to grow a consistent, reliable supply of premium-quality barley. Idaho produced 43.61 million bushels of barley in 2021, on 490,000 harvested acres, 37% of the 2021 U.S.A. Barley Crop. Barley contains large proportion of carbohydrates leading to a great source of energy for pets, along with an excellent source of vitamins and minerals such as B Vitamins, Manganese, and Phosphorus.

With great options of products and companies to choose from you can always be certain your customers are receiving only the best for from the great state of Idaho.
